PARRAMATTA POWER V NEWCASTLE UNITED POWERFUL REDEMPTION

Parramatta Power's 14 month undefeated run at Parramatta Stadium has been well documented and was also the cornerstone of the club's rise from mediocrity to title contenders.

While the glorious run has seen the good times roll at Parramatta Stadium there is still a bad after-taste in the mouths of Power fans and players from the last loss before the run started.

It was November 24, 2002 and the opposition was Newcastle United!

Newcastle has been back to Parramatta Stadium, becoming one of the 19 victims when Parramatta Power defeated them 3-2 in a Championship Series clash towards the end of last season.

Nevertheless, tonight offers the club the chance to further rub the memories of the 4-1 loss from the memory bank.

One Power player who left the field with a smile on his face last year was Travis Dodd, who scored twice in the Newcastle United victory. Injured Power goalkeeper Daniel Beltrame was also on the field for United that night.

Both players have now settled into their new surrounds at Parramatta Stadium and while the move has been something of a nightmare for Beltrame after injuring his shoulder, for Dodd it has been very successful.

A hat trick as a substitute against the Football Kingz is an obvious highlight for Dodd, who has scored five goals through varied roles as a striker and midfielder.

Conversely, Newcastle United comes to Parramatta Stadium with former Power players Milan Blagojevic and Damien Brown in the squad.

Tonight's clash represents the 9th clash between the two clubs and Parramatta Power has the wood over their Northern rivals with four wins, two draws and just two losses.

Last season the clubs met four times with honours even. Newcastle United won both matches during the regular season with the 4-1 win at Parramatta Stadium followed up by a 3-0 win at Energy Australia Stadium.

The Championship Series was a different proposition with Peter Zorbas scoring a late goal to give the Power a 2-1 win in Newcastle before the Power won the return semi final clash 3-2 at home after leading 3-0 late in the match.

The record at Parramatta Stadium is just as impressive with last year's loss masked by two wins and a draw in the previous matches at home.

This season Newcastle has been hot and cold with wins over Perth Glory and Northern Spirit tempered by home losses against Sydney Olympic and Adelaide United.

A rough patch last month has been turned around by the Ian Crook-led side that has bounced back with some positive results in recent weeks.

PARRAMATTA POWER V SYDNEY UNITED

ANTE FINDS THE TARGET

Ante Milicic is a player that respects people that have helped him achieve what he has in the game.

That has been blatantly obvious while he has been blazing a trail to the top of the National Soccer League's leading goalscorers list with a string of goals in Power's 2003/04 NSL campaign.

In the first 11 games of the season he found the back of the net 11 times to be perched on top of the list of strikers hoping to finish the season as the leading scorer.

The 29-year-old has been scoring goals in the NSL on a regular basis since making his debut in the 1992/93 season with Sydney United, tonight's visitors.

In 1993 he was the centre of attention when playing for the Young Socceroos in the U20 World Cup, played in Australia.

In a side that also included Socceroos Craig Moore, Kevin Muscat and Paul Agostino, Milicic scored against Columbia and Russia as Australia won both games in the group stage. He then scored in Australia's heartbreaking 2-1 loss to England in the 3rd place playoff.

Three goals for his country and Ante Milicic had arrived.

He went on to score 48 goals in 134 appearances for Sydney United in a career that was punctuated by a stint in Europe. A transfer to Sydney Olympic saw him continue to score goals, banging home 30 in 39 games, including the winner in the 2001/02 NSL grand final.

This season he has played against both former teams, Sydney United and Sydney Olympic and scored all three of Power's goals in registering a 2-0 win against Sydney United and a 1-0 triumph over Sydney Olympic.

In both games, there were no wild celebrations and runs towards the opposition bench. It is not his style. He showed joy at his goals and rejoiced with team mates but his celebrations were meek, choosing to show his former clubs the respect they showed him.

It was best illustrated by the fact that when he was replaced late in the game against Sydney Olympic at OKI Jubilee Stadium, Milicic received applause from the home fans who are more accustomed to hurling abuse than applause at former players.

Sydney United comes to Parramatta Stadium on January 7 for a return clash that will see a host of former Power players returning to Parramatta Stadium.

No fewer than five Sydney United players have plied their trade at the Power with the Santalab brothers (Brendan and Michael), Matt Langdon, Joe Vrkic and Liam Reddy all accustomed to Parramatta Stadium.

Conversely, Milicic, is the only current Power player to have made the opposite trek - via Sydney Olympic.

Of course things were different a few years back when Parramatta Power coaxed the majority of the Sydney United side to join the club in its initial season.

Sydney United comes to Parramatta Stadium tonight with statistically the best defence in the competition. In 11 games Sydney United has leaked just seven goals - two of which came through the right boot of Milicic.

At the other end the goals have been very hard to come by with just 11 goals, bettering just the Olympic Sharks and Melbourne Knights for productivity in front of goal.

But Coach Grant Lee has formed a very tight outfit that has surprised many to be firmly entrenched in the top four and deservedly so.

History certainly favours Parramatta Power, who has won eight of the 11 matches contested with one draw and just two losses. Power has out-scored Sydney United 21 to 7 in that time.

At Parramatta Stadium the statistics are just as ominous with the Power winning four of the five games and drawing the other game to have an undefeated record against Sydney United at home.

But, statistics count for little in soccer and the Parramatta Power v Sydney United clash is certain to have a little edge to it.

Power fans will be hoping that Ante Milicic can keep up his "goal a game" season but you can bet that if he does find the back of the net there will be a measure of respect shown for his former club.

Such is the class of the man!

PARRAMATTA POWER v Sydney United • Parramatta Stadium

Wednesday 7 January, 2004 • Kick off - 4.10pm

from the Sideline

Congratulations to Parramatta Power midfielder Peter Zorbas, who will play his 100th NSL match against Newcastle United at Parramatta Stadium on Friday night. "Zorbie" is one of the most popular players on the Power roster and has certainly made a strong contribution to the club since his arrival at the beginning of last season.

He has a knack of scoring goals in big games at the death so don't be surprised if he celebrates the milestone with a goal tonight.

Well done Zorbie!

Travis Dodd is one Parramatta Power player who always goes that extra yard on promotional visits, especially when it involves young kids.

At the recent Power/Eels Christmas Party at Ronald McDonald House Travis stepped in and did a great job as Captain Power to put a smile on the faces of the young kids.

It wasn't all plain sailing though as he had originally put the suit on backwards and didn't realise until it was pointed out that he had rather large growths in the middle of his shoulders and his back muscles resembled some mighty fine abs.

Thanks for helping Travis.

Some Birthday congratulations are in store for a few Power players over the Christmas/New Year period.

Daniel Beltrame turned 29 on December 28, Travis Dodd turns 24 on January 6, Simon Colosimo turns 25 two days later on January 8 and Angelo Martino hits the legal age when he turns 18 on January 12.

But the best birthday of the lot is Chris Cahill, who shares his birthday with the Good Lord, turning 20 on Christmas Day.

Happy Birthday to all!

Parramatta Stadium will be the place to be on Australia Day (January 26) when the Australian U23 side plays the first leg of the two-leg series to determine Oceania's representative at the 2004 Athens Olympic Games.

First the Olyroos have to overcome several Island Nation's in a series of matches in early January. If that happens they will take on another nation (probably New Zealand) in a two-match series.

Parramatta Stadium will be the venue for the first leg, on Australia Day so get out there and help support the Aussies.

While on the Olympic Games team, a massive congratulations to Ahmad Elrich and Michael Beauchamp, who have both won selection in the Australian team for the Olympic Games qualifiers.

Ahmad has been a member of the squad for the last 18 months while Michael has forced his way into the team with some tremendous performances for the Power this season.

MICHAEL EARNS HIS STRIPES

Parramatta Power defender Michael Beauchamp capped a meteoric rise to the top with his recent selection in the Australian U23 squad for the 2004 Olympic Games qualifiers in Sydney this month.

It was a rise that caught a lot of people off guard but it came as no surprise to his team mates and coaching staff at Parramatta Power - many of whom had been calling for his inclusion.

Another group of people probably not caught off guard by his selection are the strikers he has come up against this year.

Looking through the list of the leading goalscorers in the NSL is like a whose who of the game with the cream rising to the top.

Vaughan Coveny has nine goals, Michael Curcija and Damien Mori have eight each, Stewart Petrie has scored seven, Bobby Despotovski, Luke Morley, Anthony Pelikan and Tom Pondeljak have notched five goals while Dylan McAllister, Harry Ngata and Chimaobi Nwaogazi have scored four times.

Look through that same list and only one player - Luke Morley - has scored a goal in general play against Parramatta Power.

In fact, aside from Vaughan Coveny's two penalties when Power lost to South Melbourne, Morley is the only striker to score against Parramatta Power this season. The rest have been scored by midfielders or defenders

That can be put down to the Parramatta Power defence and there has been one consistent in every match so far this season at the back for the Power - Michael Beauchamp.

Jacek Sobczyk, Andrew Durante (broken leg) and Alvin Ceccoli (knee surgery) have been instrumental in maintaining the good record against opposition strikers but Beauchamp has been the leading light - week in, week out.

"I have said for a long time that Michael Beauchamp is one of the best defenders in the country, full stop," said Power coach Nick Theodorakopoulos. "His inclusion in the Australian U23 side for the Olympic qualifiers is well deserved.

"He has been our most consistent player all season and he thoroughly deserves the chance to show everyone what he can do at the next level."

It was rather ironic that the 22-year-old should learn his fate while the Power players were conducting a hospital visit at Ronald McDonald House at Westmead Children's Hospital.

Beauchamp is the quiet, unassuming type and when he was told of his selection he had to be pulled away from a young boy in a wheelchair, with whom he had been playing for 15 minutes.

He didn't have to be asked to get up and play with the boy. Beauchamp just stood up and got into it. Just like his soccer!

Beauchamp will play his last game for the Power when Parramatta takes on Newcastle United on January 2, before a month-long campaign to help Australia qualify for the 2004 Olympic Games.

During that time he will miss a re-match with his old team mates at Marconi Stadium with the Power welcoming their western Sydney rivals to Parramatta Stadium on Saturday January 10.

It is a match that will have a little sting in the tail after the events of the first stoush but Parramatta Power v Marconi clashes need no extra motivation. It is the Battle of the West and the two sides will offer nothing and expect nothing in return.

History favours Parramatta Power tonight as the Power has won five of the nine matches played between the two clubs with one draw and Marconi winning on three occasions.

The earlier match this season saw the Power take the points with a 2-1 win at Marconi Stadium.

The corresponding match was a nightmare for the visitors, thrashed 7-0 at the hands of a rampant Parramatta Power at the end of last season.

But tonight's Marconi comes to Parramatta Stadium with renewed vigour and a much better team, right across the park. Coach Jean-Paul de Marigny has instilled some of the renowned Marconi passion into the shirt and despite a recent lean spell the side has improved dramatically from the team on display last year.

A return to Parramatta Stadium for Brad Maloney and a favourite of last year's campaign Brendan Renaud adds to the tension and excitement.
